in The Tribune yesterday. William Augustus Stiles was born on March 9, 1837, His father was Edward Augustus Sitles, an eminent mathematician and teacher, who founded the Mount Retirement Seminary, about three miles from Deckertown, N. J. and his mother was Eveline Belmont Howell previous to her marriage. The seminary was one of the less educational institutions in Northern New-Jersey, and from his childhood Mr. Silles was brought up in an intellectual atmosphere. His mischlevous and fun-laving disposition was so pronounced in his boyhood that his father expelled aim from the school at least once every term for the good of the other pupils, but in spite of his pranks he was a hard student, and at the age of eighteen

N. Harrison and William C. Whitney, and dis-tinguished himself in two widely different lines. Latin and music, his protectency in both being marked. He was graduated in 1839, and later was a teacher in his father's school, but his health, which had been delicate, falled so as to cause alarm, and he sailed for California by way of Panama, thinking that the ocean voyage would be beneficial.

This supposition was well founded, and for a time after his arrival at California the improvement in his health was so great as to be a surprise both to himself and to his family and friends. While in California at first he accepted a place as instructor in a private seminary, but soon resigned to accept a situation in the engineering corps of the Union Pacific Railway. While engaged in this work he overstrained his weak eyesight upon the fine lines necessary in map drawing, with the result that he

When he arrived at home he was entirely blind and so weak physically that few ventured to prean invalid, strictly confined to his home, but his and he continually wrote vigorous and characteristic political articles for The Tribune and other papers. The bulk of these articles were dictated to his sisters, Mrs. E. H. Davey, of Jersey lity, and Mrs. James Bennet, of Port Jervis,

The late General Judson A. Kilpatrick and other warm friends of Mr. Stiles secured his appointwarm thends of all. The duties of the situation were always distasteful to him, and, although he might have been retained in the service upon a change of Collectors he left it and resumed active mewspaper work for The Tritune, becoming also the agricultural editor of "The Fhiladelphia Weekly Press."

This service is due to the large increase of business between the two cities and to the efforts of Assistant Postmaster-General Shallenberger, by whom the negolations have just been concluded. This will enable the publishers of the leading newspapers in New-York to place their papers on said to make direct connections with the West and South at this point. It is also expected to be of immerse benefit to the public generally in New-York, as all the midnight collections, which are now extremely heavy and have heretofore had to wait for the 4:20 train, can be forwarded on this earlier train and malls for the South and West earlier train and the point. Mr. Stiles was an ardent and consistent Republican, and for years he fought losing battles in the Democratic country of Sussex. In 1880 and 1881 he was his party's candidate for State Senator, and both times he accomplished the feat of carrying the strong Democratic township of Wantage, and although he ran about 1,00 votes ahead of his ticket each time, he was defeated by small materials. After the close of the last camonign in which he took part as a candidate the NewsJersey Senate, being Republican, elected him as secretary, a place which he held only one term.

where he could sometimes oppose the efforts for the perversion of the purpose for which the parks were created. At the same time his appointment was one of the chief cataes which led to his final liness. While still continuing his duries or "Garden and Forest" and other literary work, the amount of labor which he did in relation to the parks was great. Although the piace was one without pecuniary reward, he spent himself freely in the city's service.

Mr. Stiles was an enthusiastic lover of music, one of the sort that exerts a potent influence on the artistic life of the community. He did not cultivate it in a practical way, except to a limited degree, but he was theroughly familiar with the less music, loved it intensely, and neglected few opportunities to hear it. His discussion of musical subjects with friends of kindred tastes was a constant delight and stimulus. He kept thoroughly abreast of the musical life of the city, and his keen insight and deep sympathy made him a critic whose opinions and comments were an unconsing pleasure to those who heard them. Though there never was a man more modest about his own views and opinions in music than Mr. Stiles and while his knowledge was not technical in its scene, his sound judgment and wide experience in music made in criticism, expressed as it always was in quaint and teling phraseology, highly valued by his friends. Mr. Stiles was a musical amateur of the likebest type—the type that determines the standard of a community in culture and enlightenment, and in no other side of his life did his clear head and warm heart count for more than here.

Mr. Stiles never was married. His surviving sisters are Mrs. E. N. Millen, who lives on the family homestead at Deckertown, N. J. Two nephews, in whose success Mr. Stiles took a deep interest, are br., John A. Hartwell and William S. Bennet, a lawyer of this city.

EASTWARD RECORD BROKEN

THE KAISER WILHELM DER GROSSE

MAKES ANOTHER GREAT TRIP. REACHES PLYMOUTH IN FIVE DAYS, FIFTEEN

HOURS AND TEN MINUTES AND NOW HOLDS POTH RECORDS-EXPECTS TO MAKE 570 MILES A DAY.

Plymouth, Oct. 6.-The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, Captain Engelhart from New-York for Bremen, arrived here at 3:05 this afternoon. The time of passage from New-York to Plymouth was five days, fif-teen hours and ten minutes, the big ship's aver-wood, of Kingston, presiding at the former and the teen hours and ten minutes, the big ship's aver-age speed was 21.91 knots per hour, and her longest day's run was 519 knots.

the eastward and westward records between the eastward and westward records between spoke on his experiences in a trip around the world.

New-York, Plymouth and Southampton, compelling the Hamburg-American liner Fürst Bis-pelling the Hamburg-American liner Fürst Bis-marck and the American liner St. Paul to lower an address on "Christian Work." marck and the American liner St. Paul to lower their colors to her. The remarkable feature of this triumph is that it has been accomplished on maiden trips, before the machinery of the steamer is at all limbered up. What she will do when she has "found herself" can only be conjectured. 507, 510 and 519 miles. The best previous record to Plymouth was six days, nine hours and ord to Plymouth was made by the Fürst Bis-twenty-four minutes, made by the Fürst Bis-twenty-four minutes, made by the Fürst Bis-twenty-four minutes, made by the Fürst Bis-18 intermediate, I senior and 1,201 junior societies of marck in August, 1896. The Kaiser has thus lowered this record by eighteen hours and fourteen minutes. At the rate at which she was going she should have passed the Needles, where the time to Southampton is taken, six hours later. This would have made her time to Southampton five days, twenty-one hours and ten minutes. The best time of the St. Louis, which made the record to Southampton last month, was six days, ten hours and fourteen minutes. The St. Louis on that trip covered 3.077 miles, at an average hourly speed of 19.34 knots. Thus the fleet St. Louis was beaten on the total time by nineiceen hours and four minutes, and on the hourly speed by 2.57 knots.

The fleetest ship afloat, the Cunarder Lucania, made an average hourly speed on her record-breaking trip from Queenstown in October, 1894, of 22.01 knots, 10 knots better than the present record of the Kaiser. All the above records either than the Kaiser's were made by well-limbered machinery in pleasant weather. According to all reports brought by incoming vessels to this port, very heavy weather has prevalled on the Atlantic for the last week or so. This makes the Kaiser's feat all the more credit.

The record of the Kaiser's hand the present time of 224-260, and judicia, 254-360, and judicia, 254-360 fleet St. Louis was beaten on the total time by nineteen hours and four minutes, and on the hourly speed by 2.57 knots.

The fleetest ship afloat, the Cunarder Lucania, made an average hourly speed on her record-breaking trip from Queenstown in October, 1804, of 22.01 knots, 10 knots better than the present record of the Kaiser. All the above records other than the Kaiser's were made by well-limbered machinery in pleasant weather. According to all reports brought by incoming vessels to this port, very heavy weather has prevailed on the Atlantic for the last week or so. This makes the Kaiser's feat all the more creditable.

It will be remembered that on her maiden It will be remembered that on her maiden trip to this port, ending on September 26, the Kaiser broke all previous westward records from Southampton, with the time of five days, twenty-two hours and thirty-five minutes. Her average was 21.39 knots an hour. It will be seen that on her run just completed she has bettered this average by 42 knots. The North German Lloyd Line officials say that she will see the second of the control of the second of the control of the second of easily go five hundred and seventy miles in twenty-four hours, which would bring her aver-age over twenty-three knots. There will then be no ship affoat that can catch her.

THE LOYAL LEGION AT DINNER.

A GATHERING OF MEMBERS OF THE NEW-YORK COMMANDERY WHICH MORE THAN FILLS

DELMONICO'S DINING HALL. It was plainly and painfully evident last night that the New-York Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion has so large an active memhership-active where there are catables and drink-ables, at least-that no one large dining hall at present available is large enough to hold all the members, even though three hundred can be com-fortably seated in Delmonico's big hall. But the everflow was provided for in some of the annex rooms, and there had as good service, the same number of courses, the same brands of wines, as in the big room. The sociability would have been more wholesome, however, could all the members after all, everybody was happy and everybody had a good time, even to the few women guests who re privileged to sit in the balcony, to look down upon the hardy warhorses, see them eat, drink and be merry and inhale the fumes from the cigars later and listen to the speeches and songs.

General Grenville M. Dodge presided at the dinner, and after the colors had been received with cheers all hands began the assault on the mess tables. At the end there were a number of "dead tables. At the end there were a number of "dead marines," as empty bottles are nautically termed. nd then came the other part of the feast, beginning with the ballad of "The Loyal Legioneer." THE BALLOT LAW QUIGG FAVORED.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Mr. Lemuel E. Quise is quoted in the public papers as follows: "The explanation which the union makes as to why it has nominated candidates for the Assembly is plainly dishonest, because the ballot law as it exists is essentially the law as proposed by the Good Government clubs."

At the time the present law was adopted the Good Government clubs. City Club and other non-partisan bodies fought the proposed form of ballot tooth and nath. I saw Mr. Quizg personally when we were making the fight and enlesvored to callet his cooperation. He refused to do anything at all to assist in the adoption of the Australian ballot tin opposition to our proposed ballot purely upon machine and partisan grounds, stating that, of course, our proposed ballot was better for independents, but that he was a partisan and would have nothing to do with it. When it turns out that Mr. Quizg's law is even in some slight respects prejudicial to machine interests he tries to saddle the responsibility upon the independents. BOUDINOT KEITH.

In the afternoon three meetings were held in the First Presbyterian, Park and First Baptist churches. Reports of committees were read to the same effect in all three, as were the reports of the junior superintendent, Mrs. C. C. Luckey, of Brooklyn; the secretary, A. E. Dewhurst, of Utica, and the treasurer, H. A. Klipperts, of New-York. The report of the treasurer showed receipts of $1,802.29 and expenditures are to Plymouth was six days, nine hours and Christian Endeaver in the State. THE MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN.

GEORGE SNATCHES THE STANDARD. From The Mail and Express. From The Mail and Express.

The only result of Tammany's search in other States for indersement, up to date, has been criticism or demonstation of Tammany's course by men whom it had selected as true representatives of the National party. What, then, is left of Tammany's "regularity" but firegularity? Henry George, in a single night, has snatched a tattered standard from a cowardly custodian, and the applause of Bryaniam throughout the Republic is like. George stands for erroneous theories, Tammany for spoils. It is a case of honesty in a mistaken cause against dishonesty in any cause. And the mercenary must go to the wall.

THE GEORGE BOOM A BOOMERANG. From The Buffalo Express. If Mr. Platt started the George boom, it is prov-ing a boomerang. Already George overshadows his own candidate. All the anti-Tammany Demo-eratic organizations are tumbling over one an-other to indorse the single taxer. A George cam-paign committee is being organized from among the members of Tammany Hall and the regular Democratic organization in Kings County.

FRANK AT THE OUTSET.

HAS CROKER LOST HIS GRIP?

From The Syracuse Post.

Mr. Croker is apparently ignorant of the changes that have taken place during the last few years. He still belongs to the stone age in politics. He seems to think that the Democratic party will dance every time the tiger roars. He seems to think that the people of New-York will still submit to fraud at the polis, corruption in office and put up with bad government without a protest. If not, why didn't he show more respect for public sentiment when he named his ticket last week? THE CHANCES AND THE RESPONSIBILITY. From The Boston Herald.

General Tracy amounces that he will not withdraw as a candidate for Mayer. This would seem to insure four candidates in the field to the last in New-York City. It must be looked upon as a quadrilateral contest, therefore. The chances are apparently regarded as altogether favorable to Seth Low, under these conditions, by those best informed of the disposition of New-York votera informed of the disposition of New-York votera in tertainly leaves the responsibility of putting Tammany into the control of the city with those Republican voters who refuse to support Mr. Low. The weather has been has to cover makes perfect scrutiny impossible. has to cover makes perfect scrutiny impossible. While the number of cases under treatment to-day is in the neignborhood of two hundred and fifty, there are many houses which have not yet been disinfected, but in which the patients have been declared well. Less restraint than usual is imposed on the inmates of such premises, and the result has been that the number of fact has been increased. But the total death rate is still small in proportion to the number of cases.

Two of the new cases are in Algiers, making seven which have appeared in that suburb. The disease has apparently died out at Ocean Springs.

TAMMANY OR LOW? From The Wine and Spirit Gazette.

A careful survey of the situation justifies the assumption that Platt's man Tracy will not get five thousand German votes in the Greater New-York. So intense is the prejudice against Platt and Plattism among the German-Americans that even those Germans who on National issues generally vote the Republican ticket cannot be brought to support a candidate who wears the Platt calar. For all practical purposes of the impending municipal stringle an investigation of the causes which have created that prejudice against Tom Platt is useless here. It is there and has to be reckoned with. On the other hand, it is equally true that the vast majority of the German-American voters do not take kindly to a candidate who wears the Croker collar, especially if the Tammans Licket is objectionable for other reasons. The Greater New-York is normally a Democratic community. A candidate for Mayor of this great municipality, put in the field with any hope of success, must receive Democratic votes, else he cannot be elected. There can be no doubt whatever that Seth Low will set the independent Democratic vote which General Tracy can never get.

It is difficult to ray what rôle Henry George will from The Wine and Spirit Gazette. independent Democratic vote which General Fracy can never get.

It is difficult to ray what rôle Henry George will pay in the present municipal campaign. There are no honest made about the fact that it is the money of the Republican machine that is beaund his canviss. One thing is certain: George's political strength is not half of what it was ten years ago. Seth Low is the logical and most available candidate of all who are opposed to a return to power of Tammany.
